

Gaining access to AELP's free online assessor training course

EPAOs and provider members of AELP should have received an email last Friday explaining how to gain free access to AELP's new online assessor training course, developed in partnership with Innovate Awarding and Pearl Assess. Broken down into 6 modules, the course will:

- provide an understanding on the basic principles of assessment
- support best practice for assessors involved in End Point Assessment
- provide further understanding to providers to help prepare apprentices for End Point Assessment
- provide End Point Assessment

Organisations with a starting point to then build a further professional development programme for End Point Assessors.

If you have any difficulty locating the access details, please email the Admin Team at enquiries@aelp.org.uk. Do let AELP's chief policy officer, Simon Ashworth (sashworth@aelp.org.uk), have any feedback on the course content and usability. We would be very happy to consider any improvements that could be made. In the meantime, we hope that you find the course to be another fantastic free benefit that comes with being an AELP member.
